

4-27-2015

Last Post

Abby M. Rolland
Gettysburg College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://cupola.gettysburg.edu/libinternblog>

 Part of the Archival Science Commons, and the Museum Studies Commons

Share feedback about the accessibility of this item.

---

Rolland, Abby M., "Last Post" (2015). Blogging the Library. 29.
<https://cupola.gettysburg.edu/libinternblog/29>

This open access blog post is brought to you by The Cupola: Scholarship at Gettysburg College. It has been accepted for inclusion by an authorized administrator of The Cupola. For more information, please contact cupola@gettysburg.edu.

---

Last Post

Abstract

I cannot believe this is my last week working in Special Collections and there are less than three weeks until graduation. My time up here has gone by so fast and I'm sad it's coming to an end! I've made a lot of progress and learned a lot as well. [excerpt]

Keywords

Musselman Library, Gettysburg College, Fortenbaugh Internship, Special Collections, College Archive, Archives

Disciplines

Archival Science | Library and Information Science | Museum Studies

Comments

The Interns at Gettysburg College's Musselman Library captured their internship experiences since the spring of 2011. Over time the blog has featured Fortenbaugh, Smith, and Holley interns. They shared updates on semester long projects, responded to blogging prompts, and documented their individual intern experience.

Creative Commons License

Creative

Commons

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial 4.0 License

License

Last Post

April 27, 2015

By: Abby Rolland '15

I cannot believe this is my last week working in Special Collections and there are less than three weeks until graduation. My time up here has gone by so fast and I'm sad it's coming to an end! I've made a lot of progress and learned a lot as well.

On Mondays, I'm finishing what I can on the PR collection. I'm still going through binders, labeling individual slide sheets with what the slides are, and then adding that on to a Word document. My hope is that the next person who works on the PR collection will understand my notes and continue what I've done or something related to it. It has been interesting to look at slides from the 80s and 90s, especially at clothing style and how that has changed.

On the other days, when Melanie is in, we work on the Soldiers and Civilians exhibit. She mentioned a lot of what we've done so far, so I'll try not to repeat myself. However, working on it reminds me of how much effort goes into designing an exhibit and then implementing it. The objects originally in it had to be removed and put back in their proper place, then we had to find the objects, pick a fabric to use, cut and install the fabric, rearrange the objects in the cases, find supports for some of them, craft fabric around some of the supports, and then give support to the old documents that are propped up. This week, we will have to work on labels to explain what the objects are. It's a lot of work for even a small exhibit and it reminds me how much work Special Collections specifically and museum professionals more generally put into exhibits. I've really enjoyed working on this partner project though - two heads are better than one and Melanie always has good ideas! Hopefully we will be able to finish most of it before the end of the week!

This has been an amazing experience and I am so lucky to have gotten it! Working in an archive is definitely a career option for me. I'll miss Gettysburg and working in Special Collections and Archives but I look forward to what the future holds.

<http://blogging.musselmanlibrary.org/2015/04/>