MS-220: Homer W. Schweppe Papers

Description

This collection is made up of a vast variety of materials pertaining to Homer William Schweppe's experiences during World War II. Schweppe compiled various items during his initial military service in the United States, such as his Seattle Port Officer I.D. badge and his uniform patches. There are also items from his time at Camp Ritchie, including his glossary of "Nazi Deutsch" terms and a book on the Order of Battle of the German Army, to which he contributed. Schweppe also included items he collected while overseas, such as a German Map of the D-Day Invasion area, a welcome pamphlet from Stratford-Upon-Avon in England, the signatures of both Hitler and Himmler, Russian Identification cards, and multiple military medals. He also kept a collection of German letters and other paraphernalia related to the German P.O.W.s at Camp Ritchie following the war's conclusion. There is some uncertainty of what Schweppe did specifically once he went to Europe, but his collection certainly gives an indication to where he was.

Biographical Note

Homer W. Schweppe was born on June 6th, 1918 in Aberdeen, South Dakota to Carl and Flora Schweppe. Shortly afterwards, the Schweppe family moved to New Ulm, Minnesota where Homer went to North Western College, and later received a Masters of Arts from the University of Wisconsin before joining the U.S. Army On September 11, 1941. From there, Schweppe was stationed in Fort Snelling, Minnesota until he joined the 212th Coastal Artillery Regiment at Camp Wallace, Texas, and later, Camp Davis, North Carolina. Schweppe attended an Officer's school at Camp Davis and was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant. He then served as a public relations officer with the Coastal Artillery regiment in Seattle, Washington until he was promoted to 1st Lieutenant, and eventually Captain, when he went to Camp Ritchie to lecture on German Army identifications, equipment, and maps until December, 1942. In January of 1943, Schweppe was sent to England as a member of the First Engineers Special Combat Brigade and was eventually promoted to the rank of Major. He was present during the D-Day landings and the occupation of Germany, collecting various artifacts along the way. By December of 1945, Schweppe was back at Camp Ritchie, which now held German P.O.W.s, and worked as a censor for the papers and letters the German prisoners were producing. Schweppe married Marian Lucile Daniel on March 1, 1946 and began to work as a Special Agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation until 1977. Homer W. Schweppe died December 6, 2008 at the age of 90.

Historical Note

World War II was an international struggle fought from September, 1939 to August, 1945, though one could argue that it began much earlier. In the European and Mediterranean theaters of operation, the main Allied powers of Britain, the United States, and Russia fought against the Axis powers of Germany and Italy in hopes of putting down their unprovoked war and put an end to their fascist regimes. In the Pacific, the Allied Forces, including China, went up against the Japanese Empire which had already been on a 10-year-long militaristic crusade of expansion and imperialism. World War II would end in Europe on May 8, 1945 following the collapse of the Third Reich and Hitler's death on May 3rd. It would take another 2½ months for Japan to surrender after the United States dropped atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, bringing the war to a complete end. In total, roughly 15 million military personnel died worldwide, while close to 45 million civilians died, though the numbers constantly change.
