

The Mercury
The Student Art &
Literary Magazine
of Gettysburg
College

Volume 2022

Article 17

May 2022

A Heart

Andrew B. Casher
Gettysburg College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://cupola.gettysburg.edu/mercury>

Part of the Art and Design Commons, and the Creative Writing Commons

Share feedback about the accessibility of this item.

Recommended Citation

Casher, Andrew B. () "A Heart," The Mercury. Year 2022, Article 17.
Available at: <https://cupola.gettysburg.edu/mercury/vol2022/iss1/17>

This open access poetry is brought to you by The Cupola: Scholarship at Gettysburg College. It has been accepted for inclusion by an authorized administrator of The Cupola. For more information, please contact cupola@gettysburg.edu.

A Heart

Author Bio

Andrew Casher is a self-published author and plans to teach English at a high school level after college. He continues to creatively write and plans to publish more works in the future.

A Heart

ANDREW B. CASHER

The rosy fingers of the dawn,
Odorous flowers, prancing fawn,
I sit and smell the gentle air,
Sat upon the dewy lawn.

Where oh where have you taken my heart?
I wake from dreams with a start,
And in a frame, I see it there:
A heart enflamed, a work of art.

Paint it with a red-soaked brush,
Trace it with a hint of blush,
Come alive and love for thee,
The one I hold who crushes me.

Juices run within my brain,
I feel a warmth once again,
A soft embrace and soothing tone,
I feel your love without refrain.

Against your bosom I lay to rest,
Slumber pulling at my chest,
I know with day there must come night,
Sleeping, we are breast to breast.

With hands like God, you make my world,
With milk and honey, gifts a-hurled,
Give me time to smith my words,
And with poesy returns my love, unfurled!

11/8/2021