8-23-2013

Fearless: Maurice Phiri

Maurice W. Phiri
Gettysburg College

Follow this and additional works at: http://cupola.gettysburg.edu/surge

Part of the African Studies Commons, Civic and Community Engagement Commons, Peace and Conflict Studies Commons, and the Race and Ethnicity Commons

Share feedback about the accessibility of this item.

http://cupola.gettysburg.edu/surge/88

This is the author's version of the work. This publication appears in Gettysburg College's institutional repository by permission of the copyright owner for personal use, not for redistribution. Cupola permanent link: http://cupola.gettysburg.edu/surge/88

This open access blog post is brought to you by The Cupola: Scholarship at Gettysburg College. It has been accepted for inclusion by an authorized administrator of The Cupola. For more information, please contact cupola@gettysburg.edu.
Fearless: Maurice Phiri

Abstract
As the class of 2017 joins Gettysburg College, we recognize first-year student, Maurice Wezi Phiri, who already has already showed his fearless commitment to social justice. [excerpt]

Keywords
Surge, Surge Gettysburg, Gettysburg College, Center for Public Service, GIV Day, social justice, Malawi, hypocrisy, Malawian Independence Day

Disciplines
African Studies | Civic and Community Engagement | International and Area Studies | Peace and Conflict Studies | Race and Ethnicity

Comments
Surge is a student blog at Gettysburg College where systemic issues of justice matter. Posts are originally published at surgegettysburg.wordpress.com Through stories and reflection, these blog entries relate personal experiences to larger issues of equity, demonstrating that –isms are structural problems, not actions defined by individual prejudice. We intend to popularize justice, helping each other to recognize our biases and unlearn the untruths.
As the class of 2017 joins Gettysburg College, we recognize first-year student, Maurice Wezi Phiri, who already has already showed his fearless commitment to social justice.

Click here to see his video.

After participating in a workshop with youth from all over Malawi, Maurice played a critical role in organizing his friends to write, compose and record two songs. The second, “A Cry for Peace” tackles hypocrisy in politics as well as the suffering that comes from war and its aftermath. The song was launched on July 6, 2013 for Malawian Independence Day.

Today, Maurice took his first step to stay involved in social justice by participating in GIV Day 2013. Our shout out goes to all the first-year students who joined him for this 23rd annual event! Check out the pictures.

http://surgegettysburg.wordpress.com/2013/08/23/fearless-maurice-phiri/