

THE MERCURY

THE STUDENT ART & LITERARY MAGAZINE OF GETTYSBURG COLLEGE

Year 2010

Article 26

1-1-2010

Josh

Candise W. Henson

Gettysburg College, candisemassey@gmail.com

Class of 2012

Follow this and additional works at: <https://cupola.gettysburg.edu/mercury>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Share feedback about the accessibility of this item.

Henson, Candise W. (2015) "Josh," The Mercury: Year 2010, Article 26.

Available at: <https://cupola.gettysburg.edu/mercury/vol2010/iss1/26>

This open access poetry is brought to you by The Cupola: Scholarship at Gettysburg College. It has been accepted for inclusion by an authorized administrator of The Cupola. For more information, please contact cupola@gettysburg.edu.

Josh

Keywords

creative writing, poetry

Author Bio

Candise Henson is a sophomore studying English and Education. Her ambition is to be an author, book editor, and 50s-style housewife. She hates writing poetry. Her literary heroes include King, Plath, Jewel, Rowling, and Eliot. She would love to marry either Joss Whedon or Ray Bradbury.

Candise Henson

Josh

my soul sings in his direction
a man with passion
a rarity
even here, in this swollen academia,
where so many men pretentiously puff cigarettes
talking of political follies and existentialism.
he is apart.
not silly, not important to the outside.
he is understated.
behind that small man is a universe of thought
whirling, sweeping my soul through his vast Space.
I want to curl beneath a blanket of his neural stars
and sleep basked in his planetary cortex,
spinning below a multitude of matter,
licking inspiration from his Milky Way dreams, safely. As the peacocks strut by and invite me for a night of fake orgasms and meager efforts, I'll dip my head in supposed shyness
and say, another day.
I'd rather lie in that caramello mind.